

goldfish memory

I wasted the last 15 mins of my life thanks to Kiki

a:

<http://www.amazon.de>

no idea, what I was doing in that particular section of the site

b:

<http://brandicarlife.com/>

checking UK tour dates

c:

<http://www.clipfish.de/>

FremdschÄmnen (DSDS)

d:

<https://www.dhl.de>

package tracking, I guess

e:

<http://www.e13.de>

friendly stalking: what's Kiki up to?

f:

<http://www.filerequester.com/>

clicked on an ad in support of onlinetvrecorder.com

g:

Google

h:

http://www.hvv.de/persÄnlicher Fahrplan

checked up on how to get somewhere (would be cool if you could enter "happiness" as the destination, no?)

i:

<http://www.ipcafe.de/>

same as f

j:

bupkis

k

<http://keepvid.com/>

ripped some Murphy Brown vids off of youtube; got the first season on dvd but since they don't seem to be able to get the rights for all the motown music in the remaining seasons, I had little choice... a girl's gotta eat... release the other 9 seasons, already!

l:

<http://www.leo.org/>

dunno, probably checked up on some french word

m:

<http://mionet.com/>

helping a friend with his My Book setup

o:

<http://www.onlinetvrecorder.com>

downloaded my recording of Ali

p:

<http://www.pkv-tarif.info/>

same as i

q:

bupkis

r:

<http://www.rtl.de>

dunno, probably dsds related fremdschÄrmen;)

s:

<http://seetickets.com>

checked for Brandi Carlile tix

t:

<http://traineo.com/>

no comment

u:

<http://www.urbandictionary.com/define.php?term=meh>

after instinctively using the word "meh" I felt it was a good idea to know whether it actually means what I wanted to express with it, it does

v:

<http://vids.myspace.com>

watched a trailer

w:

<http://www.wettendass.de> checked the guest list in order to decide whether I needed to watch... I did not x:

bupkis

y:

<http://youtube.com/user/KathrinIG>

created a HIM playlist for a friend

z:

same as w

@Kiki's R: just set a Rickenbacker as my new wallpaper the other day, yummie

Posted by Kat in 3rd wall at 22:00

27-01-2008

Mulder, it's me...

So, having just finished watching "Straightheads" (Anderson fans: go watch it; gory, non-pc thriller fans: go watch it; the rest of you: don't bother) I am of course now checking up on the latest news on Gillian Anderson and whoopie-di-duh-dah there's news about the second X-Files movie:

this time around it's not going to be a mythology plot but a monster-of-the-week plot and to quote Chris Carter

"For me, The X-Files has always been a romance. They had an intellectual romance that's very rare and restrained compared to so many relationships on TV. I think that's what appealed most to the fans. And they're back."

Yay! Mulder-Scully chemistry was rivalled only by Xena and Gabby, maybe;), j/k (but X and G had great chemistry as well, just in a totally different way).

Visually, the two of them sure pick up right where they left off.

(yes, Gillian Anderson is THAT short... in X-Files scenes where her feet are not in the shot, they used to have her stand on a wooden box, lovingly called the Gillian-board, if I remember correctly)

Here's some behind the scenes footage (with Duchovny sporting a beard...):

Anyhoo, as of now the second X-files movie is slated for release this summer.

Anyone know whether Mitch Pileggi will reprise his role as Skinner?

Posted by Kat in 4th wall at 02:23

24-01-2008

big brother is googling you

There's a new Google service coming up, called Google Health.

So far only the intro page is online but I already find that sufficiently scary for a post about it.

Google Health

Posted by Kat in 3rd wall at 12:21

18-01-2008

killwithus.com

www.killwithus.com

killwithus.com

Me likey.

Hopefully, the movie will actually turn out to be as good as this nicely done viral campaign but I have to admit I fear mediocrity. Or worse: embarrassing wanna-be-computer-geeky moments, which can kill any movie but are definitely lethal to a movie that derives its title from the fact that a website's owner is supposedly "untraceable".

"Untraceable" poster. US release Jan 25th, DE release Feb 29th.

And why do I have the feeling that Diane Lane's part here could just as well have been done by Jennifer Lopez or Ashley Judd? Judging solely by the trailer this seems to be a typical Lopez/Judd character. But I could be wrong. I'll let you know at the end of February

Posted by Kat in 3rd wall at 01:12

16-01-2008

politics of death

Note on IMDB's death data submission form.

Posted by Kat in 3rd wall at 11:48

and the Golden Globes go unceremoniously to ...

these people.

For me, most notably, David Duchovny and Glenn Close got their highly deserved best actor / best actress awards.

Bummer though that "Damages" didn't win for best drama, oh well.

Also, bummer, that the one hour press conference was just a half hour press conference (unless I tuned in too late and missed half an hour of it but I doubt that).

An award for best presenter goes to Mary Hart who was clearly thrilled to be there.

Unfortunately, there was a technical problem switching from the camera that was on the presenters to the video footage from any of the films and tv series, so whenever clips where shown, you just saw the presenters standing there in the darkness (well, you didn't see much of them

).

But hey, this stuff happens to the best of us. Happened to me too when I was directing shows with three cameras and various video footage sources, while at the same time designing and keying in the titles for studio guests and also taking care of the green screen environment

Still, here are some stills

Golden Globes 2008 during the presentation of some clips of the nominees.

David Duchovny won for his performance in "Californication".

Jorge Camara presented the best picture award.

The end (gives you a bit of an impression of the scope of this press conference).

Posted by Kat at 03:29

11-01-2008

Jump!

User generated content campaigns are soooooo 2007... or are they?

this site is asking people to submit photos of themselves jumping onto their hotel beds

www.bedjump.com

Posted by Kat in 3rd wall at 08:11

10-01-2008

Quote of the Day

"The more one studies
the harmony of music,
and then studies human nature, how people agree
and how they disagree,
how there is attraction
and repulsion,
the more one will see
that it is all music."

Hazrat Inayat Khan

Posted by Kat in talking walls at 03:47

09-01-2008

So long, farewell, auf Wiedersehen... ?

Warner Bros. goes completely Blu-ray.

Quo vadis, HD DVD?

Luckily, all this HD vs blu-ray business doesn't concern me much as long as I live in this cubby hole without any space for an actual home entertainment center. Still, it's interesting to see how it's all playing out.

Posted by Kat in 4th wall at 08:41

08-01-2008

Golden Globes cancelled

I had been wondering how this year's Golden Globes ceremony would play out with nobody there to write all the little announcement banter for the presenters.

I guess the cancellation was inevitable but it's still nice to see that SAG is showing its support for the writers.

A boycott by nominees and presenters has forced the cancellation of the planned Golden Globe Awards ceremony, with organizers planning instead to announce the award winners during an hour-long news conference, organizers announced Monday.

source

Posted by Kat in 3rd wall at 06:09

07-01-2008

Not that there's anything wrong with that!

... but man, I sure know how to pick 'em.

Crime novelist Patricia Cornwell sat with the UK's Telegraph for a lengthy interview. Generally private, the best-selling author opened up about her 2005 wedding to Dr. Staci Gruber:

"Like Scarpetta [Cornwell's protagonist], I finally feel rooted somewhere. I feel a sense of responsibility and stability that I didn't have before. I hadn't been in a long-term relationship since I got divorced in 1988 and it's hard to live that way. Being with someone who is smart and gives good advice adds tremendously wonderful elements to your life."

The rest of Cornwell's statement on her marriage is here.

For some reason I am more "shocked" than I was when I found out about the Indigo Girls. With them it was more like "well, DUH!". Then again my gaydar has always went off where Cornwell is concerned, too, but like with Sarah Bettens from K's Choice there was never any confirmation anywhere to be found, so I figured I must be wrong (Sarah has come out by now, too, so maybe there's nothing wrong with my gaydar after all ).

Oh and on a non-gossipy note:

go and read the Scarpetta series. At least up to "The Last Precinct". It's excellent. However from "Blow Fly" on the narrative style changes to third-person which makes it less attractive to readers who are used to reading the cases completely from Scarpetta's point of view as previously the books have been written with Kay as the first person narrator.

PS: for anyone who can't place the title of this post, here's the origin of that phrase

Posted by Kat in 2nd wall at 03:45